With the arrival Thursday afternoon of returns from a large number of rural polls in West Edmonton, the majority held by the Liberal candidate, Hon. Frank Oliver, rapidly advanced, and when the totals were checked in the evening D. M. Kennedy, Progressive, had a lead of 600 votes.

Many of the returns included in the total are unofficial, but a careful checking with other available sources of information would indicate that the figures are fairly accurate.

EDMONTON BOND PRICE RISING

firmness and the vote had been recorded. Aid lasted for a while in the manner in which it had opposed the service tax from the time it was first proposed.

Pay for Brains
A. Boleau asserted that there was opportunity and need for a reduction in the controllable expenditures. Also for the maintenance of the city, and he expressed regret that no such measure was being done to the bond and the administration laying down the abolition of the city clerk's salary. Mr. Boleau added to the fact that he was the first advocate of the street railway rate being reduced to five cents per ride. Mr. Boleau was asked if he was in favor of Mr. York's salary being reduced to the point where it should be. In reply Mr. Boleau said that Commissioner York was being recognized throughout the Dominion as the foremost municipal expert in Canada. If they paid for brains whatever the price, it was more than high.

Lucky to Have Them
Hymen King struck a new note in his speech when he remarked that a great deal was being said about the Hudson's Bay land assessment, and the matter very seriously. Mr. King, and I consider that we are very lucky to have the Hudson's Bay here at all, and that we do get such a high revenue out of them. Mr. King repeated his statements that it was the business of the city to take care of the returned men, and not to let them starve or else have to beg. "I've been here in Alberta twenty years," said Mr. King, "and I don't listen to what the returned men say. I'll serve you right."

Health Reform
Mrs. Chas. made an urgent appeal for election, in order that she might endeavor to bring about reform in health matters. The speaker commended that one of the most necessary things was the simple provision of water, and speaking from a doctor's point of view, she certainly made out a strong case for water extensions.

Control Authority
J. W. Foster, as a member of last year's hospital board, said that he was strongly of opinion that a new isolation hospital was necessary, and Dr. Crang and himself had taken a stand on this question. Mr. Foster considered that a great deal of reform was needed in health matters, and that the various boards were not sufficiently in touch with each other or the situation that they were confronting. He advocated the establishment of a central health authority and also the provision of a central hospital for the city.

No Rites
E. R. Hyde denied that he was the official representative of the Teachers' Association.

new Alliance, but that he was a citizen and taxpayer.

Business Management
T. P. Malone claimed support for his candidature as a successful business man, and to look into the matter of managing their affairs.

Wants Economy
L. T. Murray advocated financial economy for the next few years, asserting that presently they were going to have a large number of people settling here who would fill up the vacant lots, and help to spread the burden of taxation, but until then they had to go slowly.

Not Opposed to Labor
Richard Pratt asserted that the labor movement was not opposed to labor. There was a way to deal with labor affairs, and to look into the various measures proposed, in this way he proposed the service tax, which was initiated.

Edmonton's Fiscal Only
Archibald Hendell, alluding to the fact that he had listened to the most of them, said that the point came before the public with the plan, but he had been in the city for 14 years, and could never carry more than one plank at a time. This one plank was the good of Edmonton first, last and always.

No Wage Cutting
S. D. Walker stated that he was opposed to increasing the price of utilities. He opposed the proposal that had been made of cutting the wages of city employees, contending that they were not increased when other wages were put up. He objected to the taxation of churches, and said that he did not think that would be sanctioned by the legislature.

Care For Children
Alderman Abbott spoke on behalf of Mrs. Taylor, and stated her advocacy of endeavoring to improve the health of the city, to assist in bringing up children in improved surroundings and better methods, and to provide more playgrounds for their use.

Religious Children
Dr. Strong favors proper inquiry and methods of dealing with religious children, so as to eliminate the high cost of their education at present.

Good Service
Frank Scott, an alderman, asked for re-election on the record of service. Mr. Scott advised that he had done previously, that children and material to enable them to pursue their studies.

Teachers as Well
W. H. Sherer, north side candidate for school trustees, stated that the platform of which he included consideration for teachers as well as the children.

Try a New Method
Dr. Ghosley alluded to the high death rate among children in the city, and said that the situation was one which could be improved by preventive measures. He urged that the city should look to New Zealand in the matter and seek to adopt the policy of Dr. Grey, who had obtained so much success in that country in reducing death by means of proper sanitation and health regulations.

Speaking on behalf of Dr. Crang, it was stated by S. A. G. Barnes that the great problem before them was that of accommodation. For four or five years the school board had not found any debentures for the purpose of building. The other had come, when the debentures might have a money value before they were for sale, and if this was done he would see the value of the building.

Edmonton Progress
R. V. Bellamy said that he was educated at the University of Toronto, he was now making the city to endeavor to get the best of it, and that he had been educated in the management. He remarked that the school board appeared to have no questions at issue just now, save that of the school building, and that he believed that he had the solution. He stated that he would see new schools should be built, and estimating their requirements.

A Good Attendance
A. G. Barnes appeared for some consideration by reason of the attendance at school board meetings (141 for all the year), and said that he did not think but one other person could show a better one. The speaker referred to the financial statement of the board for the year 1920, which he said had been criticized, and asserted that he did not believe a single member had joined the board who had done this with the exception of giving the city service at the lowest possible cost.

Rules of House of Commons May Have to be Revised to Accomodate Lady Member

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press.)—The arrival of Miss A. C. McArthur, M.P., in Ottawa, has caused considerable discussion as to the revision of the rules of the House of Commons.

It is a question which has arisen in the minds of some of the parliamentarians as to whether or not the House of Commons should have a lady member.

The "Rules of the House" make no provision for women members, but it appears to be Miss McArthur's intention to sit in the House.

It is of course, of course, to be expected that the House of Commons will have to revise its rules to accommodate a lady member.

Among the more general opinion is that the House of Commons should have a lady member.

1921 Lady Astor, when speaking in the House, was asked to rise to answer a question. She rose, and the House was adjourned.

The House of Commons has a long history of being a male-dominated institution. It is a question which has arisen in the minds of some of the parliamentarians as to whether or not the House of Commons should have a lady member.

London, Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press)—According to a letter received from the Prince of Wales, who yesterday said "good bye" to that state, achieved wonderful popularity there, largely attributable, according to a court official, to his gracious courtesy.
